AMERICAN PRESS REVIEWS
JAN NIKLAS AS FRITZ PFEFFER IN THE EMMY WINNING AND GOLDEN GLOBE NOMINATED ABC MINISERIES

“ANNE FRANK”

It really doesn't matter how many times you have seen previous versions of the story of Anne Frank, whose family tried to save itself from the Nazi invaders of Amsterdam by living in a secret hiding place. Watching ABC's four-hour sweep mini is like seeing it for the first time. No, it's even better. It's like seeing colors textures and patterns you never realized were there. Also crucial to the success of this mini are outstanding performances by the entire cast.	The Hollywood Reporter
Niklas shows a heartbreaking mix of strength and sadness.	Philadelphia Daily News

JAN NIKLAS AS YOUNG PETER THE GREAT IN THE EMMY WINNING AND GOLDEN GLOBE NOMINATED NBC MINISERIES

“PETER THE GREAT”

Emerging as an outstanding actor in the international cast is Jan Niklas, whose captivating performance as the young czar is achieved with style and flair.

New York Daily News

He has the energy, vigor, excitement and physical grace of the late Errol Flynn and unquestionably walks away with the serie’s laurels, making Maximilian Schell - who plays Peter in his later years- look leaden by comparison.

Niklas was sensational, strong, vital, dominant and is probably on his way to a super American film career on the basis of this performance.

San Francisco Chronicle

Jan Niklas a new star who steals the show.

Miami Herald

It’s Niklas’ vigorously effective portrayal of the younger Peter that hooks a viewer into caring about this legendary figure. Due to his energetic performance the first two parts of “Peter the Great” are the most absorbing.

Niklas gives the “Young Peter “ dash and energy.

Daily Variety

Jan Niklas happens to be exceptional in the role. He brings it all out in a performance that can only be described as dashing and electric. It is an auspicious American debut for the young German actor.

New York Post

He gives a fine performance.

JAN NIKLAS - BIO

Jan Niklas was born and raised in Munich, Germany. After attending boarding school in England, he took acting classes in London. Following this, he returned to Germany and successfully completed three years of acting training at the renowned Max Reinhardt Academy in Berlin.

Jan Niklas is a well-established, internationally known and critically acclaimed actor. He has appeared in many leading and supporting roles for television, feature films and theater throughout America and Europe. He has worked with an impressive number of European directors including Claude Chabrol of France, England's Richard Eyre, Oscar-winning Danish director Bille August, Oscar-winning Dutch director Fons Rademakers, Oscar-nominated German director Michael Verhoeven and Oscar-winning Hungarian director Istvan Szabo. In fact, it was Istvan Szabo's Oscar- and Golden Globe-nominated foreign film, "Colonel Redl" that brought Jan's outstanding talents to the attention of the international film industry.

In the U.S.A. Jan was tapped for the lead in the 30-million-dollar, Emmy-winning NBC mini-series "Peter The Great," in which he portrayed the young Czar Peter, the leading role in the first four hours. In this film, he led an international cast including Vanessa Redgrave, Omar Sharif, Trevor Howard and Laurence Olivier. Jan's critically acclaimed performance earned him his first Golden Globe nomination, and TV Guide's title "Male Discovery of the Year."

His "style and flair" was recognized throughout the industry, and brought him to another historical drama, the Emmy- and Golden Globe-nominated mini-series: "Anastasia." Opposite Olivia De Havilland, Rex Harrison and Amy Irving, his "spirited performance" earned him a second Golden Globe nomination, this time winning the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's coveted award.

"Anne Frank," another Emmy-winning ABC miniseries followed. In it Jan played Fritz Pfeffer, one of the eight Jews in hiding with the Frank family during World War II. He co-starred with Ben Kingsley, Brenda Blethyn and the lovely Hanna Taylor Gordon, as Anne.

Jan`s recent English-speaking roles include ``Winter Solstice``, (Lead) a British Movie-Of-The-Week, for ITV, in which he starred opposite Geraldine Chaplin, Sinead Cusack and Oscar-winner Jean Simmons. The 2004 film "Plain Truth" aired on U.S. Lifetime TV. Jan played opposite Golden-Globe winner Mariska Hargitay. In 2005 he appeared in "Summer Solstice" for British ITV, performing with Jacqueline Bisset, Sinead Cusack and Franco Nero.

Oscar-winning and nominated actors Jan has had the pleasure to work with include: Winona Ryder, Meryl Streep, Vanessa Redgrave, Omar Shariff, Rex Harrison, Olivia De Havilland, Amy Irving, Alan Bates, Jeremy Irons, Liv Ullman, Ben Kingsley, Brenda Blethyn and William Holden.
